Ulm University Hospital
Germany
March 6-9, 2012

In 2012, this traditional course will be held in English. Based on the experience of more than 30 courses, endoscopic demonstrations of the endonasal procedures, normally not visible, have been developed to a high standard. Open as well as closed approaches will be demonstrated.

This course is for surgeons with experience who like to learn different solutions for typical and also difficult problems. Knowledge about the dynamic pillar function of the septum and its correction by septoplasty is assumed.

Within the Facial Plastic-Reconstructive Course we focus on typical defects after tumor-resection. The closure is also shown via live-operations.

Teachers:

Prof. G. Rettinger, PD Dr. M. Scheithauer,
Prof. N. (Mrs.) Rotter, (Course directors)
ENT-Department, Ulm University Hospital

Invited Speakers:

- Prof. H. Gassner, Regensburg, Germany
- Prof. D. Simmen, Zürich, Switzerland
- PD A.-J. Tasman, St. Gallen, Switzerland

Topics of the course are:

- nasal valve and alar base
- hump-/tension-/deviated nose
- tip surgery,
- cleft lip septorhinoplasty
- septal perforations
- complications and risks

The course consists of different components:

- Lectures
- Live TV-surgery
- Dissections (demonstration and hands on) [limited availability]

The course is composed from Tuesday until Thursday

- During dissections another program will be offered for non-dissection-participants.

On Friday we will additionally offer a course on facial plastic-reconstructive surgery.
